The Electric Sugar Fraud.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Olive E. Friend, Emily Howard, George Halstead and Orrin A. Halstead, who have been held for sixteen months on the charge of being connected with a fraudulent electric sugar refinery scheme, were discharged to-day. The originator of the fraud is dead. "Parson" LeHoward is serving a ten-years' sentence for his part in it. Mrs. Friend and Mrs. Howard were given their men. The Halsteads were merely mechanics employed to set up the machinery.

His Condition Serious.

NEW HAVEN, April 21.—Prof. William G. Sumner, Yale's well-known professor of political economy, after leaving a class-room at noon, dropped suddenly, and was picked up unconscious. His physician announces that his trouble is occasioned by a disordered stomach. While he may not be in danger of death, his condition is serious.

Beheading War Prisoners.

PARIS, April 21.—The Gaulois says the Dahomians have made two vigorous assaults upon the French positions in Dahomey. Four French pickets captured by the Dahomians were beheaded. The French retaliated by beheading five of the female warriors of the King.

Severely Injured.

ROME, April 21.—The Crown Prince of Italy, who is now traveling in Southern Russia, met with a railroad accident to-day. As the train was leaving Vladikavkas it was thrown from the track by the breaking of a wheel of one of the cars. The Prince was severely injured.

Steamship Arrivals.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Arrived—The Phania, from Hamburg.
HAMBURG, April 21.—The California, from New York.

A Turfman Suicides.

LONDON, April 21.—Colonel Brace, a noted member of the Turf Club, and the brother of St. Gatrene, the winner of the Derby in 1884, committed suicide early this morning by shooting himself.

A Town Annihilated by Fire.

LOUISVILLE, April 21.—The little town of Harrodsburg, Ky., was almost completely wiped out by fire last night. The damage is estimated at $150,000.

Steamer Lost.

LONDON, April 21.—The steamer Balboa, from Grimsby, was lost in the North Sea. Fifteen people were drowned.

Shorter Day Demanded.

SHARON (Pa.), April 21.—All the carpenters have struck for a nine-hour day instead of ten.

Murder Indictment Dismissed.

CHICAGO, April 21.—The indictment against Frank Woodruff, alias Black, charging him with complicity in the murder of Dr. P. H. Cronin, was dismissed to-day by consent of the State. The indictment for horse-stealing still pends against him.

Captain Couch Dead.

GUTHRIE (Ind. Ter.), April 21.—Captain Couch, widely known as the organizer of the Oklahoma movement, died this morning from the effect of a bullet wound inflicted by J. C. Adams in a quarrel on April 4th. Adams was taken to Wichita to escape being lynched.

The Canadian Bait Act.

HALIFAX, April 21.—Newfoundland advises that the government has decided for this season that the present bait act is to be carried out, under licenses by which all foreigners will be permitted to purchase one barrel of bait per ton of their register on payment of tonnage dues.

Seized by the Customs Authorities.

NEW YORK, April 21.—The Imman Line steamship City of Berlin unloaded a part of its cargo this morning without having entered at the Custom-house, and the Customs authorities have seized the vessel.

Temperature.

CHICAGO, April 21.—New York 42, New Orleans 62, St. Louis 50, Cincinnati 52, Chicago 44, Winnipeg 40.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

A BEAUTIFUL COSTUME.

The Wedding Dress to be Worn by Miss Tessie Fair.
A Paris cable to the New York Herald says: M. Arnaud has completed and sent to San Francisco the wedding dress that Miss Fair will wear when she marries Herman Oelrichs. The dress is of white satin, manufactured at Lyons especially for Miss Fair. It is covered with rare Alencon and Argeuon lace, purchased piece by piece from the lace collectors and curiosity shops, of a sort not manufactured at all nowadays.

AN EMBARRASSING MISTAKE.

A Pillow-slip Which Would not Hold Flour.
The Nevada Cal. Herald relates the following:
One of our handsomest young ladies was terribly upset by a little mistake she made the other day. Going in a hurry for some flour to a store on Main street she took what she supposed to be a clean pillow-slip from a bureau drawer. She bounded into the store, smiling like a basket of chips, and handed it to the Apollo-like clerk to be filled with flour. He didn't notice what it was until a scoop of flour had gone through it. When he raised it up and displayed the two outlets at the bottom, widely fringed, the young lady lit out without saying a word, and the clerk covered with flour, laid the garment in the money drawer and waited her return which had not eventuated up to the hour of going to press.

But Two Lincoln Votes in Georgia.

Only two votes were cast for Lincoln in Georgia in 1890, one of them by "Uncle Billy" Powers, who is still alive. The other man, Cyrus McCollum, was conscripted and lost his life during the war. Mr. Powers was formerly a Baptist minister, but now belongs to the sect known as the Church of Christ. He lives in North-east Georgia, and sometimes appears in Atlanta, where his quaint figure always attracts attention.

The Kind-Hearted Czarina.

The Czar and Czarina recently visited the military prison in St. Petersburg. The beautiful Dagmar, like her sister, the Princess of Wales, has a kindly grace of manner that wins confidence. She inquired of each prisoner the reason of his punishment, and as a happy result of this "personal visitation," the Czar ordered the release of sixty prisoners, and a reduction of sentence in the cases of sixty more.

A Well-Preserved Mother.

Dr. Alice B. Stockman of Chicago, who has been "doing" Russia, speaks of the wife of Tolstoi as "dressed in a calico wrapper, trundling her baby in the woods. A beautiful woman she is, who, although 46 and the mother of thirteen children, has still the freshness of youth in her face, as well as in her heart."

Must Be a Spiritualist.

CHICAGO, April 21.—A special from Birmingham Ala., says that Louise Worcester, the mistress and confidant of J. Wilkes Booth, the assassin of President Lincoln, declares that Booth is not dead; that she received a letter from him two years after his alleged death.

Proceedings of Congress.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Among the bills placed on the calendar in the Senate to-day was one to provide an additional Associate Judge for the Supreme Court of Arizona.

Reagan introduced a bill for the repeal of all laws for the retirement of army and navy officers from active service on pay.

Plumb introduced a concurrent resolution directing the Secretary of the Treasury to purchase for coinage, silver bullion to the maximum amount authorized by the Act of February 28, 1888, and gave notice that he would ask for its consideration to-morrow.

The Senate then took up the House World's Fair bill. The only amendment reported by the Senate committee is the insertion of a new section providing for a naval review in New York harbor in April, 1893, and the unveiling of the statue of Columbus at Washington.

Vest spoke at length in opposition to the bill.
At a caucus of Democratic Senators held this morning, a resolution was adopted to appoint a committee to take charge of the interests of the minority in matters of legislation.

HOUSE.

Dorsey of Nebraska introduced a joint resolution that Secretary Tracy be directed to increase the Treasury purchase of silver to the maximum amount authorized by the act "to authorize the coinage of standard silver dollars and restore its legal tender character," which was passed over the veto of the President and became a law February 28, 1878. Referred.

A bill was passed providing that soldiers who lost limbs during the late war be entitled to receive artificial limbs every three years. The present law permits him to receive one every five years.

Struggle of Iowa submitted a conference report on the bill to provide a temporary government for the Territory of Oklahoma. Adopted.

Secretary Proctor has transmitted to the House the report of Quartermaster-General Robinson in regard to the condition of affairs in the overflowed district of St. James and Ascension parishes in Louisiana. General Robinson says in St. James Parish, in the neighborhood of the great Nita Crevasse, everything is flooded for miles; that the situation is deplorable, hundreds of planters are ruined and thousands of laborers will soon be thrown out of employment. At Grande Point, where there were from 60 to 80 families, the people escaped in skiffs, and the whole precinct is under water. He recommends instant action for the relief of the sufferers by the United States, and says there is liable to be in St. James, St. John and Ascension parishes, 5,000 persons destitute within a month.

Representative Vandever of California appeared before the House Committee on Foreign Affairs this morning to advocate the adoption of his joint resolution requesting the President to negotiate with Mexico for the promotion of commercial and friendly relations and for the adjustment of boundaries. He described the unsettled state of affairs in Zona Libre, and pointed out the necessity for a speedy adjustment of the boundary question, and referred to the increasing number of illegal entries of Chinese across the border. All these might be satisfactorily settled by negotiations with the Mexican Government through the medium of a Commission, to be appointed by the President. This Commission could also ascertain and construe the meaning of existing treaties and make the necessary provisions for reforming them.

A HANDSOMELY BOUND BOOK OF 400 pages, giving symptoms of all diseases and recognized treatment according to four different schools, will save $50 in doctor's bills in one year. Given away with THE WEEKLY GAZETTE AND STOCKMAN one year $2.

Irish Land Matters.

LONDON, April 21.—In the Commons to-day Parnell moved that the Irish land purchase bill be rejected. He said the measure justified the claims the nationalists made nine years ago, and he welcomed Balfour as the latest recruit to the ranks of the land reformers. While accepting the Government recognition of the principle of the land for the people, Parnell declared he could not admit that the bill was a satisfactory solution of the land question. The initial question was how far a British tax-payer would go in lending credit to Irish landlords. The experience gained by a discussion of Gladstone's land bill in 1886 shows the tax-payer would not go far enough to finally settle the land difficulty. The present bill was a means simply to enable one-ninth of the owners of land in Ireland (these being the larger absentee landlords) to sell out at exorbitant prices, leaving their poorer resident brethren in the lurch.

Not Infringers.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—In the case against the Fairbank Canning Company of Chicago for an infringement of the patent in the manufacture of oleomargarine the United States Supreme Court holds that the patents granted by the United States to Hippolyte Mege for the invention of the process expired with the expiration of his Austrian and Bavarian patents. The last reissue of the patents was therefore invalid, and consequently Fairbank & Co. are not infringers.

Should Receive Encouragement.

The Chicago Tribune has started a fund for Kate Shelley of Boone county, Iowa, who some years ago crept across a railway trestle over the Des Moines river, in a stormy night, at the risk of her life, and stopped a passenger train from plowing through a broken bridge. The Chicago and Northwestern Road gave her $100 and half a barrel of flour at the time, and since then she has tried to pay off the mortgage on her dead father's farm and support the family by teaching school, but without entire success.

The Same Words Came Back.

A recent visitor offered some words of condolence to the widow of General Crook, in reply to which Mrs. Crook said: "Some years ago I met the widow of a great soldier. Her husband had just died. She was inconsolable. She asked me, weeping: 'How can I bear it?' I said to her: 'Bear it as a brave soldier's wife ought.' How often she came to me after that and repeated the words to me; and now those same words come back to me."

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

THE Democratic papers are making an effort to prove that California and the Pacific Coast are not treated well in the new tariff bill. With the exception of a single article, on the contrary, they get pretty much all they could in reason expect. The fruit schedule is raised; barley gets increased protection, which it very much needed, and the duty on lead ores is restored. A specimen Democratic objection is that jute bags are subjected to duty, while jute itself is made free. But that is just the way to benefit the farmers. The San Francisco Bulletin says: If there was no duty on the bags, our farmers in time would be placed at the mercy of the bag manufacturers of Calcutta. Hindu labor is abundant and nearly as cheap as Chinese. There is no possibility of competition with it here. Even the convicts in the State Prison, though no wages as such is given them, would be worsted in any struggle of that nature. The sum which it costs to feed, clothe, house and guard a convict is largely in excess of what free labor obtains on the banks of the Hoogly. The result would be that jute bags could no longer be manufactured by the State except at a loss. Private manufacturing, even with Chinese labor, would be out of the question. In the hands of the Calcutta syndicates, the farmers of California would be compelled to pay on their bags all that the traffic would bear. With jute on the list, and duty on the bags, there is a chance of manufacturing bags on the part of the State and private corporations which cannot fail to keep down the price of these articles. The Democrats with characteristic stupidity, have not been able to comprehend this proposition. Either this is the fact, or they are unduly under foreign influence. In their tariff bill both jute and bags were put on the Free List. The Republican statement on the subject is sound and intelligent, and is calculated to confer the greatest benefit on our farmers.

The Senate last Friday, by a vote of 35 to 23, refused to punish for contempt the press correspondents who decline to divulge how they got hold of executive session business. The Senate has a sensible majority. It has made itself ridiculous enough about this question already. The United States in the last quarter of the nineteenth century is a bad place and time to undertake the government of the people, by the people, for the people, in a dark corner.

A DUTCH carpenter has invented a kite to be used for life-saving purposes by supporting a person in the water and towing him through. It seems to be merely a revival of Ben Franklin's experiment of the last century. He made his kite tow him across a considerable pond, and believed that it would be easy to cross the Strait of Dover with a fair wind, though he admitted that for ordinary purposes the regular packet would be preferable.

A PHILADELPHIA syndicate has just completed the purchase of 8,600 acres of land at Lenoir's Station, thirty miles from Knoxville, Tenn. A big steel plant, woolen mills and a branch road to Harman to connect with the Cincinnati Southern are involved. The and is the old Lenoir plantation, famous throughout the South.

"EVERYTHING we farmers have to sell is higher now than in the forties, and everything we have to buy, except perhaps sugar, is lower. Most of us would never know how bad off we were if somebody who wants an office did not tell us," is the observation of a Woodford county, Ill., farmer to the Drovers' Journal.

THE Democratic press is much worried lest the McKinley tariff bill proves objectionable to the ultra-protectionists of the Republican party.

DANA of the New York Sun hits Cleveland's vulnerable spot whenever he refers to his increasing obesity.

Scrofula Sores.
"My adopted boy, aged 14 years, suffered terribly from scrofula sores on his leg, which spread till they at one time formed one great sore from the calf of his leg up to his thigh, partially covered with scab, and discharging matter continually. The muscles became contracted so that his leg was drawn up and he could hardly walk. We tried everything we could hear of, without success, until we began giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla. In just a month, after he had taken two-thirds of a bottle, the sores entirely healed, his leg is perfectly straight, and he

THE BOSTON WOMAN.

She is Not Only Transcendently Delightful, But She is Superb.

Of all the complex products of modern civilization it is to be doubted if there is any thing more astonishing or more inexplicable than that thing which the Boston woman calls her mind. Boston, Aolo Bates in the Chicago Tribune. Boston men, as a rule, do not take the trouble to assert their possession of anything of the sort, and, if they have a mind, simply use it and say nothing about it. But the Boston woman has her mind on her conscience, so to speak, and while she has left none of the super-sensitiveness toward conduct which plagued her ancestors, she does agonize over the proper cultivation of her mind, her ethical sense exhausting itself in this direction.

It would be interesting to know just where the Boston woman draws the line between amusement and cultivation, if, indeed, she draws it anywhere. She mixes lectures and receptions, study classes and luncheon parties, so thoroughly and with such an air of looking at them from the same point of view that one can not tell whether it is that she takes every thing so seriously, or looks upon all so frivolously. The impression which the looker-on inevitably gets is that whatever her attitude toward one is her attitude toward all; but masculine perspicacity is seldom able to discover just what this is.

At the present moment the Mind—it should always be spelled with a large M, and my unfitness to treat of the subject is, it is to be feared, shown by the lower-case letters above—is given in about equal proportions to the Greek play, to luncheons and afternoon teas, which are as thick as leaves in Vallombrosa, and to philosophy. The luncheons are dreadful festivities, chiefly confined to the fair sex, which last for about three hours, have as many courses as a dinner, and completely spoil not only the day but the evening. Of the Greek play there is more to be said when the time comes, and the philosophy is in the shape of lectures. In the first place, Prof. Royce, of Harvard, has been lecturing in drawing-rooms about Spinoza and other distinguished and distinctly incomprehensible philosophers. He has undoubtedly taught much, and one of the results has been the quickening of an intense desire to master—or, as I am speaking of women, should I say mistress?—all knowledge.

"I was so fired by the lecture one day," a Boston woman said, "that I went straight to the library for a volume of Fichte. I was determined to know all there was in his philosophy to know, but I thought I would begin with a small volume first. I asked the librarian for the smallest volume on Fichte she had, and she gave me a little book that looked as though a baby might master it. It was so small and pretty. But the viciousness of that volume I can not begin to express to you. I sat down with it one night, and I could not comprehend the first word. It was worse than a nonsense rhyme, and it wasn't half so amusing. But I said to myself: 'I have taken it in the evening when my brain isn't clear.' But the next morning when I read it it was more incomprehensible than ever. I said to myself that ignorance was on the whole preferable to idiocy, even in Boston; and so I mildly but firmly carried the small book back to the library; and now I listen to the lectures as if they were not really meant to be understood, but only to be enjoyed as music." They are charming on that basis.

Prof. Louis Dyer is also giving lectures to the fashionable Boston women, and the conversation at the lengthy luncheons aforesaid turns upon lofty subjects at which the masculine head reels merely to hear mentioned. The women do play their part most admirably. They are as grave about it as children over the make-believes of their childish sports. They might really be in earnest for all one could tell from their manner.

"I am afraid I would never do for Boston," a clever Western girl said the other day. "I have frivolous moments even while the discussion of the universe and the ultimate end of man is going on. I even let my frivolous attention become absorbed in the exquisite flavor of an entree or a salad while I am hearing the deepest truths of philosophy discussed at an intellectual luncheon."

"You forget," she was answered, "that philosophy has no truths; it is only theories. But, laying that question aside, it is to be inferred from what you say that you must really be a Bostonian changed in your cradle. Your attitude is precisely that of the Boston woman, except that she consciously and deliberately lets her mind wander. Once a discussion is started in which she does not have to bear a part, she deliberately turns her mind out to grass and lets it run its unregenerated course. Her only care is to preserve an outward semblance of attention; and for assuming a comprehension and an enjoyment in topics in which one has not the slightest interest or understanding, the Boston woman is probably without rival in the world."

"How perfectly nasty," the Western girl protested. "Now, I think the Boston women, mind and all, are delightful."

"Delightful!" her interlocutor echoed. "They are without equal in the world. They are enchanting. Most women can go to the length not only of humbugging women, but of accomplishing that doubtful feat upon her own self. She is not only delightful, but she is superb."

LITERARY BREVITIES.

EDWARD BELLAMY is dramatizing

"Looking Backward."

MARY J. HOLMES, the novelist, received royalties on seventy thousand copies of her books sold in 1899.

"The Biography and Letters of Sarah

Bernhardt, 1884-89," by an old and well-known military officer, is soon to appear in Paris.

"GYN" is the nom de plume under which the Countess de Mariel, the niece of Mirabeau, writes her spirited and dashing novels.

A FUND of over $25,000 has been raised for the benefit of the widow and children of Philip H. Welch, the humorist, who died about a year ago.

STANLEY's book will be translated into

Swedish and Spanish, and will be published in the several countries simultaneously.

RIDER HAGGARD has created as the central figure of his new story, a Zulu

King, for whom he chooses the unregal name of "Charcoal," possibly because the name suits his complexion.

DR. OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES read a number of his poems to the students of Boston University the other day. His selections included the "Last Leaf,"

"Dorothy Q" and "The Chambered

Nautilus."

LORD TENNYSON has been tempted into print to deny the report that the "scene" of his poem of "Locksley Hall" was laid in Lincolnshire. He had no particular hall in view when he wrote the poem, which has become world-famous.

JULES VERNE is said to be at work on his seventy-fourth novel. He is not an old man, but was made a cripple four years ago by a sad accident; a nephew staying with him became violently insane

all of a sudden, and attacked the novelist with a pistol. The famous story-teller is a pole by birth.

EMILE ZOLA's next book will be called

"Money," and will deal with the Paris

Exchange and the many wild speculations which have a world-wide celebrity.

He will follow it with another novel called: "The Break-Down," descriptive of the fall of the second Empire and the Franco-German war.

The number of books published in this country last year was less by over six hundred than during 1898. In the departments of fiction and law, however, there was an increase in 1899 over the previous year. In England also there was a decrease of over five hundred in the number of books published in 1899 as compared with those of 1898.

The names of Dickens and Thackeray pair as naturally in one's mind as do those of Pope and Dryden or of Schiller and Goethe. Yet it is not generally known that Thackeray first met

Dickens where the former proposed to become the illustrator of his earliest book, a proposition which was, presumably, declined, as Cruikshank was the artist who materialized Boz's keen humor.

HERE is an odd extract from the Edinburgh

Review of 1894: "Mr. Browning, in truth, more nearly resembles the American writers

Emerson, Wendell Holmes and Bigelow, than at any poet of our country. Tried by the standards which have hitherto been supposed to uphold the force and beauty of the English language and of English literature, his works are deficient in the qualities we should desire to find in them. We do not believe that they will survive, except as a curiosity and a puzzle."

GLEANEED HERE AND THERE.

CULTIVATION of the date palm has become an established industry in Florida.

At Riverside, near Denver, the finest equestrian statue in America marks the

The Ventura County (Cal.) papers are urging their readers to plant camphor

as the eucalyptus.

The coinage of the one-dollar gold

GAMBETTA'S GRAVE.

The Floral Decorations on the Anniversary of His Death.

Today I visited the grave of Gambetta in the picturesque Cemetery of the Chateau, lying among the hills of Nice, and I found that there had been many groups of visitors of both sexes to it in the course of the day. It was as genial a day as any in which the sun ever shone on the coast of the Mediterranean and the cemetery was a scene of beauty. There were hosts of pilgrims here last week from many parts of France, on the anniversary of Gambetta's death, the last day of the year, and the honors that have been paid daily since then to the memory of the "great tribune" show how deep is the hold that he retains upon the heart of France.

Today the grave was thickly covered with floral crowns and wreaths of exquisite beauty and fragrance. They lay all around it as well as on top of it. They were of red and white roses, and of immortelles, and of many other kinds of flowers, and I noticed many humble floral tributes among those of a grandiose style. Here are the lovely crowns and other wreaths brought from Paris by the Under Secretary of State for the Colonies; here is a festoon from Alsace; here is another brought by the Deputies from the Maritime Alps; here is another draped in crape and bound with tri-colored ribbons brought by some admirers in Nice; here is a superb crown bearing this inscription: "To the Grand Tribune from an Unknown Admirer," here is another marked "Un Parisienne" in black letters; here is another from the Patriotic Union, and here are many others which it is not necessary to classify. The spectacle is bewitching and romantic as the sun shines upon the mass of flowers at the grave on this Sabbath day.

A middle-aged woman, deeply veiled, stands for hours near the grave; and some of those here who recall the circumstances of Gambetta's death indulge in speculations regarding her that may not be without foundation.

A few feet away from the tomb is a huge wooden pyramid, raised soon after Gambetta's death seven years ago, for the purpose of displaying the artificial memorial crowns and wreaths that were sent here by cities, Republican committees and patriotic organizations in all parts of France. The pyramid is covered on all sides, from base to apex, with these memorials, which are of many kinds and designs.

There is no permanent monument over the narrow tomb of the French statesman in the Cemetery of the Chateau. The reason for this is that it is not believed that his coffin will remain in Nice for many years. The Government desires that it all be removed for the final interment to the Pantheon in Paris; but his father, who yet lives here, a very old man, positively and persistently refuses to allow it to be taken away from Nice. The probability is that the removal will be brought about after the death of the father.

Besides the display at the grave here in Nice, there has been another during the last week at Ville d'Avray, near Versailles, at the house where Gambetta died, and we have also news of the holding of commemorative meetings in many other parts of France. In short, it is evident that the name of Gambetta is yet a name outranking that of many of his political contemporaries in the mind of the French people.—John Swinton, in N. Y. Sun.
